

Urban Solution Group Marks “Fifth Mile”

Increased Capacity Offers Additional Mitigation Options for Oil and Gas Operators

Denver, CO - January 13, 2020 - Urban Solution Group, a Colorado-based oilfield services company focused on mitigating nuisance impacts to nearby communities, announced it recently manufactured the fifth mile of its flagship product, patent pending sound and mitigation walls. This fifth mile is significant as now the company can service up to 25 separate locations concurrently, leading to increased nuisance mitigation to nearby communities.

“I am honored to celebrate this important milestone with the entire Urban team and our partners at Springs Fabrication,” said Heidi Gill, CEO Urban Solution. “Our collective success is due to the hard work and dedication of the folks on the team, as well as our valued customers in the oil and gas industry who are committed to protecting the health, safety and welfare of the great state of Colorado.”

Urban’s patent pending sound and mitigation walls can be installed and removed in half the time it takes competitors while providing increased safety features and operational efficiency. Founded in 2017, the Denver-based startup is fully funded and providing dozens of jobs in Colorado Springs, Denver and Northern Colorado. Urban is growing substantially year-over-year with plans to continue strategic, disciplined growth and market expansion across the country.

“As one of Urban’s first partners, we saw the immense value of a company that focuses on mitigating impacts in the communities where we live and work,” said Matt Owens, president and acting-CEO of Extraction Oil & Gas. “We believe that energy development can be both sustainable and profitable and Urban embodies that same approach. Heidi and her team are leading the next generation of safe, responsible and innovative energy development in Colorado and we look forward to seeing Urban continue its trajectory of growth and success.”

On December 12 the company celebrated the “5th Mile” with a small appreciation for all that worked to help make this milestone happen. Positioned for growth, Urban has plans to continue manufacturing throughout 2020. Operating primarily in Northern Colorado, the need for increased mitigation for oil and natural gas development is growing and the company plans to continue to partner with their customers to help them innovate and reduce nuisance impacts to nearby communities.

“At Urban, we collaborate with operators and communities to understand the specific concerns of the surrounding communities and proactively mitigate with innovative products to ensure operational success,” noted Gill. “We are excited to be a part of the next generation of oil and natural gas development, one that will continually innovate to reduce impacts to nearby communities and the environment.”
